

Bio:Po-Ju Lin, PhD, MPH, RD

Po-Ju Lin is a postdoctoral associate in the Division of Cancer Control, Department of Surgery at the Wilmot Cancer Institute, University of Rochester Medical Center. She received her doctoral degree in Exercise Physiology and a master's degree in Human Nutrition at University of Michigan-Ann Arbor. She is an American College of Sports Medicine certified clinical exercise physiologist and a registered dietitian. She joined URMIC PEAK Human Performance Clinical Research Laboratory in 2016 and has been working with Dr. Karen Mustian on nationwide, multicenter, randomized clinical trials using physical and mindful exercise interventions to manage cancer-related toxicities in patients with cancer. Her work has been recognized with numerous research awards from scientific organizations including American Society of Clinical Oncology, Society of Behavioral Medicine, and International Association of Yoga Therapists.