Joint AGS/NIA Conference on Cancer and Cardiovascular Disease

We are excited to announce that “Cancer and Cardiovascular Disease”—the third in a three-part series of U13 Bench-to-Bedside Conferences—will be held at the Heart House – American College of Cardiology in Washington, DC on Monday, October 18 to Tuesday, October 19, 2021. A preliminary agenda for the conference can be accessed HERE.

The conference, sponsored by the National Institute on Aging (NIA) and the American Geriatrics Society (AGS), will provide attendees the opportunity to learn about cutting edge research developments, participate in the creation of recommendations for future research, and network with colleagues and leaders in the field.

The application for the conference is now available and can be accessed HERE. Applications are due by Monday, June 14th, 2021 and applicants will be notified if they are invited to participate by the end of July 2021. Please review the following eligibility criteria before applying.

Applicants must meet the following criteria:

1. At least 1-2 years of research experience in a related field.
2. Hold an MD, PhD, PharmD or equivalent degree (e.g., DO, OD, DPT, DDS, Psy.D).
3. Have an academic appointment as a research fellow, instructor, or faculty member.

A special thank you goes out to Conference Program Committee Co-Chairs, Drs. Caroline Blaum and Supriya Mohile, and all Conference Program Committee members for the generous amounts of time and resources each has contributed to this conference.

If you are interested in participating or learning more about the conference please contact Elisha Medina-Gallagher, Manager for Special Projects at egallagher@americangeriatrics.org or 212-308-1414.

Please note, we are planning an in-person conference, but we will follow CDC guidance and local policies at the time of the conference. We will consider special requests for other ways accepted attendees can participate (virtually) on a case-by-case basis, although we encourage applicants to plan to attend in-person, if allowed and possible.
